

Carole Horne's Suggested New England Summer Reading

Escapist:

Robert B. Parker: Sixkill, and others in the series about Boston P.I. Spenser

Hallie Ephron: Come and Find Me

Archer Mayer: The Price of Malice and others in the series about Brattleboro, Vermont policeman Joe Gunther

Linda Barnes: Lie Down with the Devil, and others in the series about the Boston P.I., Carlotta Carlyle

Literary Fiction:

Geraldine Brooks: Caleb's Crossing

Julia Glass: Widower's Tale

Allegra Goodman: The Cookbook Collector

Alice Hoffman: The Red Garden

Gish Jen: World and Town

Sue Miller: Lake Shore Limited

J. Courtney Sullivan: Maine

Jennifer Haigh: Faith

Non-Fiction:

Gail Caldwell: Let's Take the Long Way Home

Andre Dubus, III: Townie

Melissa Coleman: This Life Is in Your Hands: One Dream, Sixty Acres and a Family Undone

Paul Farmer: Haiti After the Earthquake and Tracy Kidder's book about Farmer, Mountains Beyond Mountains

David McCullough: The Greater Journey: Americans in Paris

Harvey Silverglate: Three Felonies a Day

Classic:

John Marquand: The Late George Apley

Henry Adams: The Education of Henry Adams

Louisa May Alcott: Little Women