AARP Report: Generics 18 Times Cheaper Than Brand-Name Drugs

"The magnitude of the difference between the average retail prices for brand-name drugs and the average retail prices for generic drugs is growing and it is substantial," says Leigh Purvis, AARP's director of health services research.

It's unfair that Americans pay the highest prescription drug prices in the world. We must crack down on price gouging and the greedy practices that keep prices artificially high. It's time our leaders stick up for people 50+ and their families.

The melting pot has long since boiled over, an overflow of bitterness;
They lack a/, they lack color and themes;
They fear what was once the land of dreams and prosperity;
The West is not the gold mine—the Western World is broken.
My rice and beans are tasteless and I have been stripped of identification at the borders;
My only coronas left are the ones in Spain’s collection as a prize for their conquistadors;
My cumin is my cumin because it is colored too.

Tell me why I should remain calm
Because all I see is unseasoned logic.

No President should fear public scrutiny of his program. For from that scrutiny comes understanding; and from that understanding comes support or opposition. And both are necessary.

We realize the importance of light when we see darkness.

We realize the importance of our voice when we are silenced.

The power of education frightens the minds of women. The power of the voice of women frightens them.

And that is the terror. Why they are blaming schools every day because they remember the need of change and equality that we will bring to our society.

There was a boy in our school who was asked by a journalist why the answer is written very simply by pointing to his book.
Oppressed people cannot breathe, cannot forever breathe for freedom.

This is what has happened to the American Negro. Something within has reminded him of his birthright of freedom, and something without has reminded him that it can be gained. He has acted upon this consciousness. He has been moved beyond barbed wire. Black brothers the world over-are moving with a sense of great urgency toward freedom. The long suffering of black peoples the United States and the world is moving with a sense of great urgency toward freedom. The world is moving with a sense of great urgency toward freedom.

The Negro is stirring from centuries of oppression and latent frustrations.

The Negro is a threat. If not released by his brother, a white man, he will seek expression through violence;
this is not a threat, it is a fact of history.

Dear sisters and brothers, we realize the importance of light when we see darkness. We realize the importance of our voice when we are silenced. In the same way, when we were in Swat, the north of Pakistan, we realized the importance of pens and books when we saw the guns. The wise saying, “The pen is mightier than the sword,” is true. The extremist are afraid of books and pens. The power of education frightens them. They are afraid of women. The power of the voice of women frightens them. This is why they killed 14 innocent students in the recent attack in Peshawar. And this is why they kill female teachers. That is why they are blowing schools every day because they were and they are afraid of change and equality that we all bring to our society. And I remember that there was a boy in our school who was asked by a journalist why are the Taliban against education? He answered very simply by pointing to his book, he said, “a Taliban doesn’t know what is written inside this book.”
